

Announcing a New Series

The Environmental History of the Northeast

Edited by

ANTHONY N. PENNA & RICHARD W. JUDD

The aim of this series is to explore, from different critical perspectives, the environmental history of the Northeast, including New England, eastern Canada, New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania. The series will focus on the social and cultural history of the region as shaped by human interaction with nature as well as a complex natural history of geological upheaval, climatic change, erosion, and renewal.

ABOUT THE SERIES EDITORS

Anthony N. Penna is emeritus professor of history at Northeastern University and author of multiple books, including Nature's Bounty: Historical and Modern Environmental Perspectives. Richard W. Judd is the Col. James C. MacBride Distinguished Professor of History at the University of Maine and author of, among other books, Common Lands, Common People: The Origins of Conservation in Northern New England.
