Course Outline:

From Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show through Chuck Berry and Star Wars to Honey Boo Boo a fascination has existed with the best and worst of American popular culture. Love it or hate it, we are all exposed to its pervasive presence in some form or the other. This course traces the evolution of American popular culture from its emergence as an increasingly inclusive "mass" culture in the nineteenth century to the more fragmented and kinetic cultural productions that are disseminated by American media—literature, television, film, music, the internet, etc.—today. It will look at the ways in which different individuals and groups have used these various media to try to construct and exert a cultural influence on American life. It will attempt to determine what it is about this culture production that makes it "popular" and distinctly "American." And it will consider how American popular culture has influenced politics, social movements and, most importantly, American identity at home and abroad.

Outcomes:

Upon completing the course, students will be able to:

- Identify and describe key figures, movements, events and trends that have defined American popular culture
- Discuss, from a historical perspective, contemporary issues in American popular culture
- Critically assess cultural productions and artifacts in through examinations, class discussions and a written assignment
- Develop verbal and written communication skills

Textbooks:

Lewis A. Erenberg, Steppin' Out: New York Nightlife and the Transformation of American Culture (Westport, CN: Greenwood Press, 1981)

Glenn C. Altschuler, All Shook Up: How Rock 'n' Roll Changed America (New York: Oxford University Press, 2003)

Steven Johnson, Everything Bad is Good for You (New York: Riverhead, 2006)

Course Requirements:

Midterm Exam 30% (October 15)

Assignment 30% (Due November 12)

Final Exam 40%

Midterm and Final Exam:

There will be one Midterm exam held in class on October 15 and a Final exam held during the December Exam period.

Assignment:

Students will write a 6 page (double-spaced) paper discussing either a cultural artifact or production and its significance to the evolution of American popular culture. The paper should use a minimum of five secondary sources (books, monographs, journal articles) from the Weldon Library including at least one journal article and book. On-line material is acceptable only in certain cases which must be verified by the professor or Teaching Assistant.

All citations should appear as footnotes or endnotes and follow Chicago Style in format. The essay will be due in class* on November 12.

*Assignment Submission

Hardcopies of all assignments are to be submitted in class as well as electronically to turnitin.com by the time that class has started.

“Students agree that by taking this course all required papers may be subject to submission for textual similarity review to Turnitin.com for the detection of plagiarism. All submitted papers will be included as source documents in the Turnitin.com reference database solely for the purpose of detecting plagiarism of such papers. The terms that apply to the University’s use of the Turnitin.com service are described on the Turnitin.com website.”

Late assignments will be penalized 5% the first day and 2% each subsequent day.

Late assignments handed in after the last day of class will not be accepted.

Students must complete this assignment to pass the course.

Statement on Plagiarism:

It shall be an offence for a student to commit plagiarism.

From the Academic Handbook:

Plagiarism: “The act or an instance of copying or stealing another’s words or ideas and attributing them as one’s own.” Excerpted from Black’s Law Dictionary, West Group, 1999, 7th ed., p. 1170.

This includes submitting a paper you have written or intend to write for another class.

SUPPORT SERVICES:

The website for the UWO Office of the Registrar is: <http://www.registrar.uwo.ca>.

UWO has many services and programs that support the personal, physical, social, and academic needs of students, in a confidential environment.

- The Student Development Centre (SDC) has trained staff and an array of services to help students achieve their personal, academic and professional goals. See: <http://www.sdc.uwo.ca>.
- The Services for Students with Disabilities office (SSD) has staff members who specialize in assisting students with various disabilities to adjust to the university environment. See: <http://www.sdc.uwo.ca/ssd>.

For information related to accessibility, including accessible routes, temporary service disruptions, and university policies related to accessibility issues, see:

<http://www.accessibility.uwo.ca/students/index.htm>.

Communication:

For reasons of privacy, students should communicate with the course instructor and TA using their UWO email addresses; all communications regarding the course will be sent to those email addresses, rather than to other accounts (Hotmail, Gmail, etc). Students should also regularly check the Announcements section on the course website for updates.

I recognize that, for academic purposes, students rely heavily on electronic devices such as laptops or smartphones, and may be accustomed to using them in class for taking notes or following the readings. My assumption is that students will be respectful of their instructor and fellow students in using electronic devices, and will not engage in activities that distract those around them. In the event of disruptive use of such devices, I reserve the right to request that any device be turned off or put away; in extreme cases, a student may be asked to leave the lecture hall.

FACULTY OF SOCIAL SCIENCE

PLAGIARISM

Students must write their essays and assignments in their own words. Whenever students take an idea, or a passage from another author, they must acknowledge their debt both by using quotation marks where appropriate and by proper referencing such as footnotes or citations. Plagiarism is a major academic offense (see Scholastic Offence Policy in the Western Academic Calendar).

All required papers may be subject to submission for textual similarity review to the commercial plagiarism detection software under license to the University for the detection of plagiarism. All papers submitted will be included as source documents in the reference database for the purpose of detecting plagiarism of papers subsequently submitted to the system. Use of the service is subject to the licensing agreement, currently between The University of Western Ontario and Turnitin.com (<http://www.turnitin.com>).

The following rules pertain to the acknowledgements necessary in academic papers.

A. In using another writer's words, you must both place the words in quotation marks and acknowledge that the words are those of another writer.

You are plagiarizing if you use a sequence of words, a sentence or a paragraph taken from other writers without acknowledging them to be theirs. Acknowledgement is indicated either by (1) mentioning the author and work from which the words are borrowed in the text of your paper; or by (2) placing a footnote number at the end of the quotation in your text, and including a correspondingly numbered footnote at the bottom of the page (or in a separate reference section at the end of your essay). This footnote should indicate author, title of the work, place and date of Publication and page number. Method (2) given above is usually preferable for academic essays because it provides the reader with more information about your sources and leaves your text uncluttered with parenthetical and tangential references. In either case words taken from another author must be enclosed in quotation marks or set off from your text by single spacing and indentation in such a way that they cannot be mistaken for your own words. Note that you cannot avoid indicating quotation simply by changing a word or phrase in a sentence or paragraph which is not your own.

B. In adopting other writer's ideas, you must acknowledge that they are theirs.

You are plagiarizing if you adopt, summarize, or paraphrase other writers' trains of argument, ideas or sequences of ideas without acknowledging their authorship according to the method of acknowledgement given in 'A' above. Since the words are your own, they need not be enclosed in quotation marks. Be certain, however, that the words you use are entirely your own; where you must use words or phrases from your source; these should be enclosed in quotation marks, as in 'A' above.

Clearly, it is possible for you to formulate arguments or ideas independently of another writer who has expounded the same ideas, and whom you have not read. Where you got your ideas is the important consideration here. Do not be afraid to present an argument or idea without acknowledgement to another writer, if you have arrived at it entirely independently. Acknowledge it if you have derived it from a source outside your own thinking on the subject.

In short, use of acknowledgements and, when necessary, quotation marks is necessary to distinguish clearly between what is yours and what is not. Since the rules have been explained to you, if you fail to make this distinction, your instructor very likely will do so for you, and they will be forced to regard your omission as intentional literary theft. Plagiarism is a serious offence which may result in a student's receiving an 'F' in a course or, in extreme cases, in their suspension from the University.

MEDICAL ACCOMMODATION

The University recognizes that a student's ability to meet his/her academic responsibilities may, on occasion, be impaired by medical illness. Please go to https://studentservices.uwo.ca/secure/medical_accommodations_link_for_OOR.pdf to read about the University's policy on medical accommodation. Please go to <http://www.uwo.ca/univsec/handbook/appeals/medicalform.pdf> to download the necessary form. In the event of illness, you should contact Academic Counselling as soon as possible. The Academic Counsellors will determine, in consultation with the student, whether or not accommodation is warranted. They will subsequently contact the instructors in the relevant courses about the accommodation. Once a decision has been made about accommodation, the student should contact his/her instructors to determine a new due date for term tests, assignments, and exams.

If you have any further questions or concerns please contact, Rebecca Dashford, Undergraduate Program Advisor, Department of History, 519-661-2111 x84962 or rdashfo@uwo.ca
