COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This course examines in detail many of the central themes – social, cultural, political, and economic – that have defined Ontario’s history from 1791 until recently. For much of this extended period Ontario was, in the words of one leading scholar, “Canada’s heartland.” It was long thought, by Ontarians as well as many other Canadians, that Ontario’s interests were indistinguishable from the interests of the rest of Canada. While this is no longer the case, Ontario’s rise from colonial backwater in the 18th century to an economic, political, intellectual, cultural and social powerhouse nationally by the late 20th century is a fascinating history involving people, ideas, events, organizations, and innovations central to the Canadian story.

WRITTEN ASSIGNMENTS (Book Review and Essay):

Each student will write a scholarly book review (7-8 typewritten pages in length) of Michael Cross, A Biography of Robert Baldwin: The Morning-Star of Memory (Don Mills: Oxford University Press, 2012). A detailed description of the book review assignment will be distributed and discussed in class on January 14th.

A paper copy of the completed book review must be submitted at the beginning of class on February 25th. In addition, an identical electronic copy of the written assignment must be submitted by the due date and time to http://www.turnitin.com/static/index.html where students register with their own password to ensure their work is secure. Registration instructions are found at http://turnitin.uwo.ca. The class ID number is 6540237. The class name is History3231G2014. The enrollment password is ontario. The assignment title is book review.

Each student will write a research essay (13-15 typewritten pages in length) that expands upon the seminar’s focus on individuals, organizations, and events associated with Ontario’s history. Essay topics will be assigned by the instructor in consultation with each student. A detailed description of the essay assignment will be distributed and discussed in class on January 14th.

Students must submit a formal and brief (1-2 page typewritten) essay proposal no later than Tuesday 4 February 2014, and proposals must be approved by Tuesday 11 February 2014. Students who fail to meet either of these deadlines will not be permitted to submit an essay, and will receive a grade of “0” on the assignment. Approved essay topics cannot subsequently be changed without the instructor’s prior consent.
A paper copy of the completed research essay must be submitted in class on 8 April 2014. In addition, an identical electronic copy of the written assignment must be submitted by the due date and time to http://www.turnitin.com/static/index.html where students register with their own password to ensure their work is secure. Registration instructions are found at http://turnitin.uwo.ca. The class ID number is 6540237. The class name is History3231G2014. The enrollment password is ontario. The assignment title is essay.

A late penalty of 5% for the first day and 2% per day thereafter (weekends included) will be assessed against all written work submitted after the due date. Students must keep a duplicate of all written work until the final grade is received.

Please note: Students are reminded that academic accommodation on medical grounds can in most instances only be granted if supported by a University of Western Ontario Student Medical Certificate. This form can be accessed at the following website: https://studentservices.uwo.ca/secure/medical_document.pdf or be picked up at the Academic Counselling Office in the student’s home faculty. (For Social Science students 2105 SSC.) Further details on this policy can be found at the following website: http://www.uwo.ca/univsec/handbook/appeals/medical.pdf

PRIMARY SOURCE PRESENTATION AND REPORT:

Each student, in consultation with the instructor, will identify and present (approximately ten to fifteen minutes) to the seminar at least three primary sources that effectively demonstrate the principal themes of one of the weekly sessions and augment our understanding of the subject. The types of sources to be consulted could include, but are not limited to, government documents, speeches, newspaper articles, personal diaries, excerpts from novels, advertisements, photographs and other illustrations, radio and television broadcasts. Presentations must not take longer than the ten to fifteen minutes allotted for them. The student’s findings will be submitted in a formal report of approximately five pages in length due one week after the presentation. A detailed description of expectations and suggestions for completing the primary source presentation and report will be distributed and discussed in class on January 14th.

Two useful sources to be consulted as starting points for this assignment are Cornelius Jaenen and Cecilia Morgan, eds., Material Memory: Documents in Pre-Confederation History (Addison Wesley Longman, 1998) and Jeffrey Keshen and Suzanne Morton, Material Memory: Documents in Post-Confederation History (Addison Wesley Longman, 1998).

SEMINAR PARTICIPATION and LEADERSHIP:

Students are required to participate actively in all seminar discussions, thereby demonstrating their comprehension of the assigned readings. All students will be assigned a participation grade on a 10-point scale following each seminar. Failure to attend a seminar will result in a score of “0” for that class. Merely attending a seminar without participating in the discussion will result in a score of “2” for that class. The assignment of a participation grade from “3” to “10” will be determined by the quality of the student’s contributions to discussion during any given seminar.

Each student will also be responsible for leading the seminar discussion during one session. This includes circulating by email to the other students in the course at least two days before the assigned session the principal discussion questions on which the seminar will be based. It is expected that the seminar leader will collaborate with the course instructor in designing the questions and in leading the class discussion.

WEEKLY READINGS SUMMARIES:
Each week students are to submit at the beginning of Sessions 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, and 12 a two- to three-page summary of the assigned readings for that week identifying for each reading what the student believes to be the principal views of the author. Since students will not submit assigned readings summaries on the weeks they are giving a primary source presentation or leading the seminar discussion, a total of seven (7) weekly readings summaries are required.

EXAMINATION
There will be a three-hour final examination during the April examination period covering all lectures, seminars, and required readings for the entire course.

COURSE READINGS:
All course readings not available on-line are included in the Custom Course Book for History 3231G (available for purchase from the University Book Store) and are also available on 2-hour reserve at the D.B. Weldon Library.

LEARNING OUTCOMES:
Students will be able to

- Describe the central defining events, concepts, and personalities associated with Ontario’s history since the 18th century, and explain their broader cultural, social, economic and political significance within Canadian history
- Provide accurate factual information about a wide range of people, groups, events, and documents discussed in the assigned readings and explain their significance
- Strengthen skills of oral and written communication
- Analyze secondary sources, including their sources, methods, arguments, strengths, limitations, potential implications and significance for the field
- Solve research problems by identifying a topic, refining it to a significant and answerable historical question, situating it within a historiographical context, determining the essential components of the argument, organizing the parts of the essay, and drawing conclusions
- Develop independently and express cogently knowledgeable and constructive critiques of colleagues’ in-class research presentations
- Effectively integrate primary and secondary sources in class presentations and research essays
- Apply academic knowledge to develop a detailed understanding of contemporary debates surrounding Ontario’s history

SUPPORT SERVICES

Students who are in emotional/mental distress should refer to Mental Health@Western http://www.uwo.ca/uwocom/mentalhealth/ for a complete list of options about how to obtain help.

Please contact the course instructor if you require material in an alternate format or if you require any other arrangements to make this course more accessible to you. You may also wish to contact Services for Students with Disabilities (SSD) at 661-2111 x 82147 for any specific question regarding an accommodation.

PLAGIARISM

Students must write their essays and assignments in their own words. Whenever students take an idea, or a passage from another author, they must acknowledge their debt both by using quotation marks where appropriate and by proper referencing such as footnotes or citations. Plagiarism is a major academic offense (see Scholastic Offence Policy in the Western Academic Calendar).

All required papers may be subject to submission for textual similarity review to the commercial plagiarism detection software under license to the University for the detection of plagiarism. All papers submitted will be included as source documents in the reference database for the purpose of detecting plagiarism of papers subsequently submitted to the system. Use of the service is subject to the licensing agreement, currently between The University of Western Ontario and Turnitin.com (http://www.turnitin.com).

The following rules pertain to the acknowledgements necessary in academic papers.

A. In using another writer's words, you must both place the words in quotation marks and acknowledge that the words are those of another writer.
You are plagiarizing if you use a sequence of words, a sentence or a paragraph taken from other writers without acknowledging them to be theirs. Acknowledgement is indicated either by (1) mentioning the author and work from which the words are borrowed in the text of your paper; or by (2) placing a footnote number at the end of the quotation in your text, and including a correspondingly numbered footnote at the bottom of the page (or in a separate reference section at the end of your essay). This footnote should indicate author, title of the work, place and date of Publication and page number. Method (2) given above is usually preferable for academic essays because it provides the reader with more information about your sources and leaves your text uncluttered with parenthetical and tangential references. In either case words taken from another author must be enclosed in quotation marks or set off from your text by single spacing and indentation in such a way that they cannot be mistaken for your own words. Note that you cannot avoid indicating quotation simply by changing a word or phrase in a sentence or paragraph which is not your own.

B. In adopting other writer's ideas, you must acknowledge that they are theirs.

You are plagiarizing if you adopt, summarize, or paraphrase other writers' trains of argument, ideas or sequences of ideas without acknowledging their authorship according to the method of acknowledgement given in 'A' above. Since the words are your own, they need not be enclosed in quotation marks. Be certain, however, that the words you use are entirely your own; where you must use words or phrases from your source; these should be enclosed in quotation marks, as in 'A' above.

Clearly, it is possible for you to formulate arguments or ideas independently of another writer who has expounded the same ideas, and whom you have not read. Where you got your ideas is the important consideration here. Do not be afraid to present an argument or idea without acknowledgement to another writer, if you have arrived at it entirely independently. Acknowledge it if you have derived it from a source outside your own thinking on the subject.

In short, use of acknowledgements and, when necessary, quotation marks is necessary to distinguish clearly between what is yours and what is not. Since the rules have been explained to you, if you fail to make this distinction, your instructor very likely will do so for you, and they will be forced to regard your omission as intentional literary theft. Plagiarism is a serious offence which may result in a student's receiving an 'F' in a course or, in extreme cases, in their suspension from the University.

MEDICAL ACCOMMODATION

The University recognizes that a student’s ability to meet his/her academic responsibilities may, on occasion, be impaired by medical illness. Please go to https://studentservices.uwo.ca/secure/medical_accommodations_link_for_OOR.pdf to read about the University’s policy on medical accommodation. Please go to http://www.uwo.ca/univsec/handbook/appeals/medicalform.pdf to download the necessary form. In the event of illness, you should contact Academic Counselling as soon as possible. The Academic Counsellors will determine, in consultation with the student, whether or not accommodation is warranted. They will subsequently contact the instructors in the relevant courses about the accommodation. Once a decision has been made about accommodation, the student should contact his/her instructors to determine a new due date for term tests, assignments, and exams.

If you have any further questions or concerns please contact, Rebecca Dashford, Undergraduate Program Advisor, Department of History, 519-661-2111 x84962 or rdashfo@uwo.ca
