Course Materials:

Readings:

- ‘Readings’ as indicated below are indicated as: ‘background reading’, ‘primary source reading’ and ‘supplementary reading’.
- Background readings are intended to provide critical context and to assist students in preparing themselves to understand lecture materials, and participate effectively in discussions. The Palmer text was chosen as most students should already possess it. It is included for context. The McNeill and Nicolson texts are required reading, and are intended to assist students in understanding the structure of international relations as it evolved during the timeframe under discussion. In most cases the relevant chapters of these texts are indicated by lecture subject.
- Primary source readings are the focus of this course. When each will be discussed is indicated in the lecture schedule. Some primary readings are indicated immediately below as ‘Primary Source Readings (Books)’. These constitute a special subset, as particularly critical, and since each will be the subject of an entire lecture/discussion. These, as well, will be the subject of the book summaries which constitute a significant portion of graded material.
- Supplementary readings are included, by lecture topic to provide addition reference for interested students. In general, supplementary readings either help to site a primary source reading within historical context, or illustrate an important aspect of the lecture subject.
- Most readings of all sorts are available on line. Only three books (McNeill and Morgenthau not so available. These are available for purchase in the bookstore, and are held on two hour reserve in D.B. Weldon Library.

Description:

- Book Reviews. Each student will select four works from the Primary Source Reading (Books) list for special consideration. On the date that each is considered in class, those students who have selected that particular work will hand in a review indicating clearly the central arguments of the work in question, with criticism of the work as a whole. Reviews should be no more than 1000 words (four pages). Reviews are due on the date at which a particular work will be discussed. Paper copies are to be submitted in class. Electronic copies are to be submitted through the course website.

- Take Home Test. Students will be provided with a question in class, and will have one week to prepare and answer. Answers are to be no more than 1000 words (four pages)

- Exams. There will be one exam each term. There will be one cumulative essay question on the final exam. Christmas exam will be two hours long. Final exam will be three hours long.

- Final Essay. Each student is responsible for producing one 2500 word (ten to twelve pages) essay. Essays will aim to indicate the sources of a particular foreign policy. Further guidance will be forthcoming. Essentially, however, the task is to pick one discreet foreign policy period in the history of any international actor, describe the policy and establish its roots. The final essay is due on the last lecture day of class.

Plagiarism:

Students must write their essays and assignments in their own words. Whenever students take an idea, or a passage from another author, they must acknowledge their debt both by using quotation marks where appropriate and by proper referencing such as footnotes or citations. Plagiarism is a major academic offense (see Scholastic Offence Policy in the Western Academic Calendar).

All required papers may be subject to submission for textual similarity review to the commercial plagiarism detection software under license to the University for the detection of plagiarism. All papers submitted will be included as source documents in the reference database for the purpose of detecting plagiarism of papers subsequently submitted to the system. Use of the service is subject to the licensing agreement, currently between The University of Western Ontario and Turnitin.com (http://www.turnitin.com).

The following rules pertain to the acknowledgements necessary in academic papers.

A. In using another writer's words, you must both place the words in quotation marks and acknowledge that the words are those of another writer.

You are plagiarizing if you use a sequence of words, a sentence or a paragraph taken from other writers without acknowledging them to be theirs. Acknowledgement is indicated either by (1) mentioning the author and work from which the words are borrowed in the text of your paper; or by (2) placing a footnote number at the end of the quotation in your text, and including a correspondingly numbered footnote at the bottom of the page (or in a separate reference section at the end of your essay). This footnote should indicate author, title of the work, place and date of Publication and page number. Method (2) given above is usually preferable for academic essays because it provides the reader with more information about your sources and leaves your text uncluttered with parenthetical and tangential references. In either case words taken from another author must be enclosed in quotation marks or set off from your text by single spacing and indentation in such a way that they cannot be mistaken for your own words. Note that you cannot avoid indicating quotation simply by changing a word or phrase in a sentence or paragraph which is not your own.

B. In adopting other writer's ideas, you must acknowledge that they are theirs.
You are plagiarizing if you adopt, summarize, or paraphrase other writers’ trains of argument, ideas or sequences of ideas without acknowledging their authorship according to the method of acknowledgement given in 'At above. Since the words are your own, they need not be enclosed in quotation marks. Be certain, however, that the words you use are entirely your own; where you must use words or phrases from your source; these should be enclosed in quotation marks, as in 'A' above.

Clearly, it is possible for you to formulate arguments or ideas independently of another writer who has expounded the same ideas, and whom you have not read. Where you got your ideas is the important consideration here. Do not be afraid to present an argument or idea without acknowledgement to another writer, if you have arrived at it entirely independently. Acknowledge it if you have derived it from a source outside your own thinking on the subject.

In short, use of acknowledgements and, when necessary, quotation marks is necessary to distinguish clearly between what is yours and what is not. Since the rules have been explained to you, if you fail to make this distinction, your instructor very likely will do so for you, and they will be forced to regard your omission as intentional literary theft. Plagiarism is a serious offence which may result in a student’s receiving an 'F' in a course or, in extreme cases, in their suspension from the University.
