Course Description:

This course examines the social history of Canada since 1800. Focusing on the lives of everyday people and utilizing issues of gender, race, class, and sexuality, this course explores topics related to industrialization, urbanization, immigration, family, crime, and social reform. Considerable attention is paid to the historiography/methodologies of the field.

Prerequisite(s):

1.0 course in History at the 2200 level or above

Unless you have either the prerequisites for this course or written special permission from your Dean to enroll in it, you may be removed from this course and it will be deleted from your record. The decision may not be appealed. You will receive no adjustment to your fees in the event that you are dropped from a course for failing to have the necessary prerequisites.

Antirequisite(s):

History 3205E

Course Syllabus:

This seminar course examines various aspects of the social history of Canada from 1800 to the present. Focusing on the lives of everyday people, and utilizing issues of gender, race, ethnicity, religion, class, and sexuality, this course explores the concept of national, regional, and personal identity through a variety of topics, including industrialization, urbanization, immigration, family, crime, and social reform. It also examines historiography/methodologies related to the field. Students will read selected articles from three required books, and will discuss them in class. Students will also write and present a research paper, and will be expected to contribute to the seminars of classmates by reading, evaluating, and discussing their work.

Learning Outcomes:

Students should be able to:

understand the significance of social history as an illuminating area of historical inquiry.

identify past and contemporary historiographical debates in Canadian social history, particularly those related to national and regional identity.

understand the ways in which the intersecting issues of gender, race, ethnicity, religion, class, and sexuality have shaped various historical events, trends, and movements.

Course Materials:

Required Texts:

No need to purchase. Book availability will be discussed in class

Errington, Elizabeth Jane and Cynthia R. Comacchio, eds. People, Places, and Times: Readings in Canadian Social History. Volume 1: Pre-Confederation. Toronto: Thompson Nelson, 2007.

Errington, Elizabeth Jane and Cynthia R. Comacchio, eds. People, Places, and Times: Readings in Canadian Social History. Volume 2: Post-Confederation. Toronto: Thompson Nelson, 2007.

Opp, James and John C. Walsh, eds. Home, Work, and Play: Situating Canadian Social History, 1840-1980. Toronto: Oxford University Press, 2006.

Methods of Evaluation:

Research essay (12-15): Date TBA	45%
Critiques (2): Date TBA	30%
Seminar presentation: Date TBA	15%
Participation:	10%

Seminar Presentation: You will sign up for a presentation date beginning in Week 5. On your selected date, you (possibly along with one other) will present at least one of the scheduled articles. In your presentation, address and critique your article's thesis, main arguments, biases, and sources, and situate your article in the larger historiography. As well, discuss your related essay topic in the context of your reading. Stimulate class discussion by asking questions and fielding comments. Feel free to incorporate audio-visual aids. You will be graded on the content of your presentation, and on your facilitation of the seminar discussion. Your presentation will last at least 30 minutes.

Research Essay: To facilitate the research of your essay, the subject of your essay will coincide with the general seminar topic of your selected presentation date. Your essay (in paper and electronic format) will be due that same day in class. As your classmates are relying on the timely submission of your essay in order to write their critiques (see below), essays MUST be submitted on your assigned due date! Late research essays will not be accepted for grading.

Participation and Critiques: Those students not presenting an article and submitting an essay on a given week will be required to do the assigned readings, participate in the seminar discussion, and write an essay critique. Select two student essays (which will be accessible on OWL) on which you would like to write a critique (do not select an essay by a co-presenter). Your critique is due no later than one week following the submission of the essay about which it is written. Submitted critiques will not be seen by anyone other than me; they will be returned with a mark as soon as possible. Critiques should be two typed pages, be double-spaced, include a thesis statement, and assess the strengths and weaknesses of the papers. When submitting your critique, please indicate if it is critique 1 or 2.

Accommodation for missed tests/midterms, including Self-Reported Absences (SRA):

Students with an approved absence from an in-class test will be required to write a makeup test.

Students should be aware that the make-up test will not necessarily be in the same format, be of the same duration, or cover the same material as the original test.

Online courses will have online makeup tests.

In person classes have scheduled makeup tests scheduled at the following times:

Fall Term

- Tests scheduled before November 1 – the makeup will take place November 8 at 9:30am.
- Tests scheduled between November 2 and December 7 – the makeup will take place December 8 at 9:30pm.

Winter Term

- Tests scheduled before February 19 – the makeup will take place February 28 at 9:30am.
- Tests scheduled between February 20 and March 31 – the makeup will take place April 1 at 12:30pm

No other make-up opportunities will be provided. Students who fail to write a makeup test in the designated time slots will receive a grade of zero.

Course professors may not be available to respond to questions during the makeup test slots.

Students should be aware that when they have submitted an SRA for one test, they are not permitted to write a test or complete an assignment for another course during the period covered by the SRA. Failure to observe this regulation will result in the cancellation of the SRA and the possible application of late penalties.

Accommodation for missed assignment deadlines with a Self-Reported Absence:

If a student reports a SRA for an assignment (i.e. an essay) the new due date will be 48 hours after the SRA was submitted.
