Course delivery with respect to the COVID-19 pandemic
The intent is for this course to be delivered in-person but should the COVID-19 landscape shift, the course will be delivered on-line synchronously (i.e., on Zoom asynchronously (e.g., posted on OWL for students to view at their convenience). The grading scheme will not change. The course will return to an in-person mode of delivery when the University and local health authorities deem it safe to do so.

Course Description:
The development and effect of business in Canada from the late nineteenth century, with special emphasis on its social impact and the emergence of a Canadian labour movement.

Antirequisite(s):
The former History 2213F/G

Course Syllabus:
Businessmen as Heroes and scrooges@; Labour activists as: Atroublemakers.@ Popular perceptions of heroes and villains abound; history offers more nuanced images. This course examines Canadian both business and labour history within the framework of Canadian economic history. Key themes include changing business conduct, the varying fortunes of Canadian labour, evolving state roles, and implications of these changes. Ideally, students will add understanding of this history, while strengthening analytical and communications skills. Ideally, come with an interest in how Canada=s economic development was shaped by the joint effort of entrepreneurs and workers.

Course Materials:
There is no Course text; “Bullet Notes” and Power point slides available on the OWL site after the classes. There are other course elements [e.g. Forum] in OWL related to participation.
Methods of Evaluation: tentative
