Course delivery with respect to the COVID-19 pandemic

The intent is for this course to be delivered in-person but should the COVID-19 landscape shift, the course will be delivered on-line synchronously (i.e., on Zoom at the times indicated in the timetable). The grading scheme will not change. The course will return to an in-person mode of delivery when the University and local health authorities deem it safe to do so.

Course Description:

An estimated 200 million people have been killed worldwide in genocides since the beginning of the 20th century. Despite many international efforts to contain this form of mass violence, genocides remain one of the most enduring challenges to humanity.

This seminar comprehensively explores the causes, cases, contours, and consequences of genocides in modern history. The course consists of four parts: during the first part we will examine the conceptual foundations of genocide studies by exploring the work of Raphael Lemkin (who coined the term). To understand the concept’s evolution and its various interpretations we will also study the disciplinary perspectives and theoretical insights of anthropology, history, sociology, law, political science, social psychology, and philosophy.

The second part of the seminar is devoted to historical case studies. We will test some of the conceptual insights from the first part with historical specificity and explore the Armenian genocide, the Holocaust, and the genocides in Cambodia and Rwanda.

In the third part we will apply those historical insights to three of the most important research themes in genocide studies: perpetrators, victims, and gender.

The fourth part explores the consequences of genocides. We will examine the sparse and highly understudied evidence on rescue and resistance, explore the construction and contention of social memory, and study the role of education and justice. Finally, we will discuss the role of military interventions and current and past initiatives at genocide prevention.
Prerequisite(s):
1.0 History course at the 2200 level or above

Unless you have either the requisites for this course or written special permission from your Dean to enroll in it, you may be removed from this course and it will be deleted from your record. The decision may not be appealed. You will receive no adjustment to your fees in the event that you are dropped from a course for failing to have the necessary prerequisites.

Course Syllabus:
Upon completion of the course students will be able to:

- Explain the causes, contours, and consequences of genocidal mass violence in modern history
- Assess and discuss the theoretical and methodological contributions of multiple social science disciplines to the study of genocide
- Identify and engage the main arguments in the research literature on human mass violence
- Compare case studies to identify historical patterns and historical specificity
- Analyze and evaluate primary sources and place them in their historical context
- Connect present day issues to historical events and provide historical contextualization for current debates on human mass violence
- Strengthen skills of oral and written communication

Course Materials:
This is a reading-intensive seminar and the timely completion of the assigned texts is a pre-condition for good discussions. Much of this syllabus has been previously adjusted to pandemic learning conditions; but some indispensable material is either not available in digital format or Weldon Library’s contract with publishers severely restricts the number of concurrent users on a digital platform. For my choice of textbook, Routledge only allows three library patrons to use text’s digital version at the same time. While this is completely unsatisfactory, it also resembles one of the current challenges in research and learning.

You should purchase the following books which might not be available at the Western bookstore:

Methods of Evaluation:
The final grade for this course is based on the accumulated results of three assignments. Please note that 3rd and 4th year history seminars have been exempted from the requirement that students receive work assessment for at least 15% of their final grade three days prior to the withdrawal deadline.

Presentation: 20%
Research Essay: 35%
Seminar Journal: 25%
Participation: 20%

1. Presentation – 20%
You will serve as co-moderator for one seminar session. This assignment requires a thorough understanding of the presenter readings as well as the session’s weekly class readings. Your 20 minutes presentation should connect the presenter readings to the class readings and the overall theme of the week. Please provide a handout and prepare a list of questions for further discussion. We will schedule presentation assignments in the first seminar session.

2. Research Essay – 35%
In this seminar you will write a research paper on a mutually agreed topic based on primary sources and a thorough reading of the secondary literature of 20 pages + bibliography; papers should follow the Chicago Manual Style conventions, be double-space, and printed in standard size font (i.e. Times New Roman 12pts) with standard margins. Spell-check and staple your paper. HIS 3722 G is an essay course and students must pass the required written work in order to achieve a passing grade in the course.

The final essay is due in class March 31, 2023 - A non-illness related late submission incurs a daily mark deduction of 10%.

3. Seminar Journal – 25%
It is important to keep a record of what you read and what we talk about in class otherwise you’ll quickly lose track of the substantial amount of information you will be gathering in the seminar. Keep a seminar journal and critically evaluate all of our class readings every week. What do you find convincing, what not, and why? Take notes of our weekly discussions and record the main issues. Keep track of your questions. Record any relevant insights you have gained outside the classroom through conversations, books, articles, films, trips etc. Finally, discuss how your views on genocide evolve over the course of the seminar.

The final journal is due in class March 31, 2023 - A non-illness related late submission incurs a daily mark deduction of 10%.

4. Participation – 20%
The success of the seminar depends on your completion of the assigned readings, your prepared attendance, and your active participation. Take regular notes on your readings to facilitate your participation in class discussions.
Much of the learning in this seminar is based on discussion and debate; the success of the exercise depends on your completion of the assigned readings, reflection on the material, your prepared attendance, and your active participation in our weekly discussions.

Students must attend at least half (6 out of 11) of the seminar meetings in order to pass the course, regardless of grades received for other assignments. Students must submit all course assignments in order to pass the course.
