The Victorian Worldview: Nineteenth-Century Britain

2023-24 | Fall 2023 | Winter 2024

Instructor: Professor Allyson N. May

Email: amay6@uwo.ca

This is a draft syllabus. Please see the course site on OWL for a final version.

Course Description

This seminar examines the worldviews of men and women in nineteenth-century Britain: economic, political, social, and scientific, taking into account both conservative and radical perspectives. It also explores the domestic ideology commonly associated with the period, and the challenges posed to the Victorian domestic ideal.

Prerequisite(s)

2.0 courses in History at the 2200 level or above.

Unless you have either the prerequisites for this course or written special permission from your Dean to enroll in it, you may be removed from this course and it will be deleted from your record. The decision may not be appealed. You will receive no adjustment to your fees in the event that you are dropped from a course for failing to have the necessary prerequisites.

Antirequisite(s)

History 3432F/G, History 4423E, History 4420F/G

Course Syllabus

The textbook listed below is intended to provide context for discussion of shared weekly primary source readings. We will also read and discuss one of the nineteenth century's most famous novels, George Eliot's Middlemarch, over the course of the term. The issues raised in that novel span the themes of this course.

At the conclusion of this course successful students will have acquired a basic overview of how Victorian Britons understood the world in which they lived, and how they shaped that world. They will also be able to:

- Evaluate evidence and assess historical significance.
- Articulate and defend historical ideas, arguments, and conclusions, both orally and in written prose.
- Engage with faculty and peers in discussion of both source material and the process of writing history.
- Contribute thoughtfully to debates about historical and methodological issues.
- Present historical knowledge effectively and engagingly.

Methods of Evaluation

Document study (due 6 Feb.)	20% (2000 words)
General participation	20%
Reading notes on Middlemarch (Due: 23 Jan. 13 Feb. 5 Mar. 2 Apr.)	25% (informal; no specified format or word limit)
Research essay (due 19 Mar.)	35% (5000 words)

Students must submit and pass all of the written work in order to achieve a passing grade in the course.

Penalties of 2% per day, including weekends, will be levied on late submissions of both the document study and research essay for which no extension has been granted. Late papers will also be graded without comment.

Extensions must be applied for via Academic Counselling. Requests for extensions made after the due date will not be accepted.

The research essay will be on a topic of your choosing, but that topic must be approved prior to submission of the essay. Papers received without emailed approval of the topic will not be graded.

You are expected to adhere to the specified word lengths for both the document study and research essay.

The informal reading notes (4 sets) on Middlemarch are due via OWL immediately prior to the seminar in which they are discussed. Paper copies are not required. Extensions are not available and late submissions of these notes will not be accepted. The purpose of the notes is to provide a basis for class discussion.

All work submitted in this course must be your own. You may not make use of generative AI tools like ChatGPT for any assignments in this course.

Seminar attendance is mandatory. You are expected to be in class and prepared to discuss weekly assigned texts. I will not accept notes on those texts in lieu of attendance. You must attend a minimum of 8 seminars out of 12 to pass the course.
